Creative methods in Social Work

Perspectives from the UK

Katy Else and Dr. Bartosz Zaniewski are visiting the OST for the International Week. The two professionals from the University of Plymouth are going to present their approaches to creative methods in Social Work with two special lectures.

Katy Else

Katy Else has worked as a social worker in front line adult social services before joining the Plymouth University as a Lecturer. There she is responsible for practice placement modules (stage 2 BA & stage 1 postgrad) as well as for global exchange for Social Work at the University. Katy Else also teaches across the programs focusing on global social work and different «kinds» of social work practice in the UK. Her focus is on optimism and hopeful social work practice as can be seen in her passion for spoken word and poetry.

Bartosz Zaniewski

Dr Bartosz Zaniewski is a Social Work Lecturer at the University of Plymouth. He is also a qualified social worker who has been working with children and families in a safeguarding/child protection context. Dr Bartosz Zaniewski has a specific interest in Child Sexual Abuse (CSA) prevention and particularly the prevention of harmful sexual behaviour (HSB). He has worked directly with children, young people and families affected by CSA and HSB as well as has been offering consultations to professionals. He also has managed and supervised a specialist team of social workers working in this field.
